

about two weeks before I was arrested, and he examined him over there and Billy must have given a very, very clear and concise account of what happened; but when Simpson asked him if he remembered about that bluefish that Arthur caught, Eger said "No, I don't remember anything about that bluefish at all, but I distinctly remember being on the beach with Mr. Stevens that night" and he was sure that he was with me because he knew he wouldn't be fishing unless he could get bait from me. Now, Eger is around Chicago. After Eger left I looked at the evening paper for a little while as I always do before I go to bed and then went out and went over to the Wilsons next door or next to our garage and I said to Mrs. Wilson "I see you are packing up to go, and I have three bluefish that I have cleaned a little while ago and I would like very much for you to take a couple of them all cleaned and ready to cook up to your home in Jersey City with you to-morrow and I will keep them in my icebox for you until you start in the morning." Then I left them and went home and went to bed and it was then about 11 o'clock, just about. Now, I--

Q Mr. Stevens, did you see Mrs. Wilson's daughters?

A I saw them, all three.

BY MR. PALZER:

Q Mr. Stevens, did you make any arrangement with them
